The perfect FROZEN FOOD PRESENTATION

Did you know that, statistically speaking, every shopper visits the frozen food section? The customer reach of frozen products is 98%*. This means that almost every household in Germany buys frozen products.

This impressive figure is a strong argument for focusing on your frozen food department. But what exactly is the secret to perfect product presentation? It's quite simple! Activate your shoppers. Create an overview and organisation and avoid out-of-stock situations. Tidy shelves and products that are easy to reach, even in freezers, invite customers to buy.

Take up the challenge of this special category. No matter if it's a vertical (cabinet) or horizontal (chest) presentation: With an automated frozen food category, you'll not only increase sales in a very cool way – with shorter door opening times, you'll also save energy and do something for the environment. You'll be surprised just how hot ice cream can be!

HOT FOR ICE CREAM

THE DOUBLE-DECKER PRESENTATION FOR CONICAL ICE CREAM TUBS

Whether a shopper spontaneously decides to make a purchase in the frozen category depends not only on the placement of the chest or cabinet in the store. Whether the products have been strategically placed is also a decisive factor.

An appealing product presentation, whether vertically or horizontally, can positively influence the shopper's impulse to buy. A proper overview and organisation entices people to buy more quickly. Unusual presentation solutions, such as a horizontal double-decker presentation of ice-cream tubs, can catch the eye and persuade shoppers to make a purchase in a matter of milliseconds.

A well-structured brand overview and organisation triggers the customer's reflex to reach for the products, meaning that not only planned purchases but also unplanned products end up in the shopping trolley. Make sure you get the best spots.

- Visual highlight
- Perfect brand structuring
- Improved product differentiation
- Permanent front display
- Simple removal
- Easy accessibility
